Merry-Go-Rounder Gets a Job in the AAA and Shows How it Works

The nerve center of the agricultural United States during the past 12 months has been a cream brick building near the Washington Monument which houses that mushroom organization, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. From it have been mailed millions of checks to farmers all over the country. Within its walls are checked the contracts by which the major crops of the country are curtailed. How efficient has this nerve center been? To what extent over-run by Democratic carpet-baggers?

In order to answer this question, a Merry-Go-Rounder reporter went through the routine of obtaining a job in the AAA. Here is the result of his findings.

WASHINGTON—Cut a cross-section through the mass of humanity which goes to make these United States and in it you will find a duplicate of the line which forms every day before the personnel office of the AAA—seeking jobs.

Despite the fact that the New Deal is now more than one year old, this line still is long and dreary. In it are cocksure college boys just off the campus convinced the government owes them a living, thinly pathetic and aging spinsters who have heard the word "No" so often they have lost every atom of self-confidence, peanut politicians from every part of the country who boast of their personal friendship with Jim Farley—all of them sitting, waiting, pleading, bulldozing, being rejected, coming back, sitting, waiting.

Potentate of it all is a bland, bald little man, Julian N. Friant. Rather a nice little man, but as cold as Jim Farley's handshake after the first thousand.

Friant is Jim Farley's Man Friday for the Department of Agriculture, the Czar of Patronage for the biggest job pool outside the NRA. This business of patronage is a science and Julian Friant is a scientist.

He keeps a chart on which are marked columns representing every state in the Union. These columns in turn represent jobs, and each time a Senator sends a job-hunter to the AAA, his column is lengthened by one space. Each time also a Senator protests that his candidate cannot get a job, Friant takes from his desk and shows the Senatorial protestant his quota—his column—is full.

Job Mecca

Finally, after weary trips to the Capitol and proper endorsements from the proper Senator, the girl in the outer office gets beckoned.

"I can't give this to you here," she said in a stage whisper. "Come into Mr. Jones' where all the job-seekers can't see you." Then she produced a letter to H. J. Alexander, one of Friant's assistants, which meant that the job was won.

The next step was to sign eight separate application blanks chiefly for the Civil Service Commission and for the purpose of "blanketing" the employee into Civil Service after he has been on the government payroll for three months.

This is a scheme evolved by Democratic patronage grabbers for getting around the Civil Service rules of half a century. Appointees to the AAA are exempted by law from Civil Service; but later they receive automatic Civil Service status in order to make their jobs more permanent.

Work began that night at 11:50 p. m. — the night shift.

The Secret

The secret of landing on the AAA payroll is this chart plus the word of your Representative. You can sit in the dreary line which waits at the feet of Julian Friant for days and weeks, and no matter how much you may plead, threaten, cajole, you will get nowhere.

It is the word from the Congressman on the Hill that does it. And he in turn usually is in touch with the Democratic Committee in the State or County.

For those who don't know this (Continued on Page Five)

BANDITS, DRESSED IN OVER-ALLS, ROB BANK AT NAPOLEON TODAY

Grenade, War Relic, Kills 2 Ohio Boys

NEW PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—The death toll in the explosion at Sherrodsville, O., of a hand grenade, a World War relic, was raised to two today with the death of Ralph Tripp, 13, of Queensboro, O., in Mercy hospital, Canton.

Warren Eick, 12, was killed outright when the grenade exploded yesterday. The two boys were using the grenade as a block for riveting harness.

The Tripp boy recently had recovered from diphtheria. His father, Clyde Tripp, lost both hands in a coal mine accident some time ago.

4 JAILED IN 'MISER' DEATH

Youths Questioned as Result of Investigation; Old Man Beaten To Death.

JACKSON, June 6.—Four youth, arrested in a police hunt through the old mining region of Jackson, today were being grilled by authorities in connection with the slaying of Stephen Huntley, 74-year-old recluse, who was beaten to death Monday night.

Those held are Herbert Thacker, Charles Napper, Carl Napper and Ray Freeman. No charges have been filed against them.

Authorities reported finding the stock of a shotgun in the possession of Thacker and a hatchet was found in a shanty near the Huntley home. Thacker and Charles Napper, according to police, often used the shack in hunting trips.

When questioned according to Sheriff W. P. Turner, Charles Napper and Thacker accused each other of plotting to rob the aged man. Carl Napper and Freeman were taken into custody as known friends of the other youths held.

FAVOR FLETCHER

CHICAGO, June 6.—As the second day's session of the Republican national committee opened today it was reported that it had been agreed overnight to elect Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania to the chairmanship. All important factions, it was reported, had been brought into line during the night discussions to support the former ambassador.

KERNS GRADUATES

Salt Creek—two Native Obtains Doctor of Medicine Degree at Louisville

Vernon D. Kerns, graduate of Salt Creek-two high school, received a Doctor of Medicine degree from the University of Louisville in commencement exercises held Tuesday. The graduating class was the 97th of the school.

Kerns received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Ohio State University in June, 1930. He will take an internship at Mt. Carmel hospital beginning July 1.

He with Mrs. Kerns and their son, Harold Eugene, are expected to come here later in June to visit friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton Kerns and Mrs. R. W. Valentine, and Mrs. Jennie M. Boden, the latter of Columbus, attended the commencement at Louisville.

McGATH ON JURY

D. M. McGath, of Columbus, a former resident here, is serving as a federal juror during the June term of court.

Force Employees to Lie on Floor While They Rifle Cash Drawers

CLAIM 4 IN GANG

No Attempt Made to Harm Holdup Victims

NAPOLEON, June 6.—A gang of four over-all bandits today staged a robbery of the Commercial State bank here and fled in a waiting automobile with loot estimated at $1,300.

Two of the gunmen, dressed in over-alls, entered the bank and forced the president and two clerks, one of them a girl, to lie on the floor while they coolly helped themselves to all money that was outside the vault.

Another member of the gang waited outside in the automobile and a fourth acted as look-out. The two who entered the bank were armed with revolvers, while the man in the car carried a machine gun on his lap, witnesses said.

GO TOWARD BRYAN

The bandits, riding in a sedan, drove off in the direction of Bryan, 26 miles west of here.

The robbery was carried out with precision, and no shots were fired. A customer, Mrs. Chas. E. Gregg, entered the bank while the hold-up was in progress, and the bandits forced her to stand against a wall while they finished rifling the cash drawers.

E. M. Gregg, president of the bank, and W. M. Wagner and Miss Marie Prior, clerks, were forced to lie on the floor. An attempt was made to harm any of the employees when they complied with the bandits' orders.

The Commercial State Bank is under conservatorship. A. W. Fleister, conservator, was not in the bank at the time of the robbery. He placed an estimate of the loot at $1,300 and began an immediate check to determine the exact amount taken.

County authorities and state highway police were notified at once and warnings for authorities to be on the lookout for the bandit car were broadcast over the patrol radio stations, WPGG at Findlay and WPGQ at Columbus.

NOT DILLINGER
The bank employees obtained a clear view of each of the four men and gave a description to authorities. None of the bandits bore any resemblance to John Dillinger, phantom desperado, the employees said.

A special invitation is issued to all Democratic women of the city and county.

STINSON GIRL, 14, IS BADLY BURNED AS DRESS IGNITES

Charlotte, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stinson, E. Union-st., is suffering from second and third degree burns on her back and hips caused by her clothing catching fire, Tuesday, while she was burning waste paper.

Her burns, painful and extensive, are being treated by Dr. H. D. Jackson, who was called to the home immediately after the accident.

The girl's screams attracted the attention of her mother in the house. Mrs. Stinson ran to her aid and tore the girl's burning clothing from her body. She suffered burns on her hands while removing the clothing.

FDR COMBATS STEEL STRIKE

Believe President Is Taking Active Hand In Effort To Avert Trouble.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Indications that President Roosevelt has taken the leadership in the efforts to avert a nation-wide steel strike were forthcoming today.

Union spokesmen who for days have been clamoring for a session with the President, and issuing bitter statements because of their inability to get the presidential ear, were strangely quiet today after their session last night with Senator Robert E. Wagner, chairman of the National labor board.

It is believed Wagner assured the union leaders that Mr. Roosevelt will personally intervene in the situation, which is what the union people have wanted all along. They have asserted they will not retract their strike call unless assured the President's intervention.

Meanwhile, Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, and Donald Rieberg, general counsel of the NRA, prepared to depart for New York for conferences with leaders of the American Iron and Steel Institute, which for years has resisted the unions.

Mrs. Young, 71, Called at Daughter's Home

Mrs. Rebecca Young, 71, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Rose Young, Amanda, Tuesday morning.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 10:30 a. m. at Hedger chapel M. E. church with interment in Reber Hill cemetery by E. F. Schlegel.

She is survived by a son, Edward; two daughters, Mrs. Rose Young, at whose home she died, and Mrs. Ethel Young; three brothers, John, William and George Curry, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Beatty. Twenty-four grandchildren and three great grandchildren also survive.

Mrs. Young was born in Pickaway-co June 16, 1862, a daughter of John and Lydia Miller Curry.

Condition of Youth Baffles Physicians

LIMA, June 6.—Carroll Godfrey, 13, entered his 151st hour of unconsciousness today as baffled physicians watched over his still form on the small, white cot in Lima Memorial Hospital.

Carroll has been in the coma since he was injured six days ago when he fell against a concrete railing while walking across a bridge over the Ottawa river here.

The boy's pulse, respiration and temperature are normal. Physicians who at first believed he had sustained a skull fracture, said there was no indication of that type of injury but could not establish the nature of the ailment.

Charles Morgan Dead

Word has been received by friends and relatives in the Hallsville-Kingston-Adelphi district of the death of Charles W. Morgan, 65, native of Hallsville, which occurred in Dayton last Saturday.

He was an employee of the Dayton Power and Light Co.

The speaker called upon the seniors to do their work well "Because," he said, "on how well you do your work depends the future of this country."

"The destiny of America," he continued, "will be controlled in the next 20 or 25 years by the younger generation, this class and those of other high schools."

CONFESSED KILLER GUARDED IN JAIL

Fear Mob Violence as Youth, 20, Confesses Having Part "In Orgy of Crime."

BEDFORD, Ind., June 6.—Herbert Neal, 20, of Bloomington, was held in the Lawrence-co jail here today under heavy guard to prevent possible mob violence, following his alleged confession of having participated in the slaying of a Scott-co deputy and the wounding of a Seymour policeman.

Neal confessed, state police said, to having been a member of the gang of gasoline thieves who killed Deputy Sheriff Harold Amick of Scott-co and seriously wounded Patrolman John Pfaffenberger of Seymour.

Meanwhile more than twenty state policemen were searching the hills of southern Indiana for two men whom they said Neal named as his accomplices.

WELL KNOWN MEN IN SCHOOL FIGHT

Dr. Lantz, H. B. Eymann, Arthur Vlerebome Members of Lancaster School Board

Several men well known locally are in the center of the school controversy at Lancaster which developed into a near riot Monday evening.

Dr. James M. Lantz, president of the harassed school board, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for congress from the 11th Ohio district; H. B. Eymann will know here, and A. B. Vlerebome is a native of Pickaway-co. P. S. Benson is the other member of the board.

The disturbance arose over refusal of the board to rehire Dean M. Hickson, high school principal, and C. H. Griffey, superintendent of the city schools.

The board of education declined to give an explanation why the two school men were not rehired saying "such a statement would work a hardship on them in securing another position."

A statement of the school board said that the demonstration of the 700 persons is another evidence that a change in the school leadership is imperative.

413 HAVE APPLIED FOR AGE PENSIONS

To date 413 persons have applied for Old Age Pensions in the county auditor's office. T. D. Krinn, clerk-investigator, announced Wednesday.

No Summer Sessions of Chamber Commerce

Following the custom of former years, Mack Parrett, Jr., secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, announced Wednesday that there will be no general meeting during June, July and August.

GAINING STEADILY

Dr. A. R. Dafeo, the tireless country doctor of Callender, Ont., and Nurse Alice Cloutier, equally indefatigable, tend to the wants of one of the amazing Dionne quintuplets who have dodged death for more than a week, surpassing all records. The babies are gaining steadily.

Man Confesses Killing Youth, 15, Burying Body

PHILIPPI, W. Va., June 6.

Within 10 hours after Lawrence Carroll, 32, confessed that he killed Dale James, 15, and then hid the boy's body in a small cave high in the hill country of West Virginia, county authorities today announced plans for summoning of a grand jury to indict the man for murder.

Carroll, former inmate of the Weston State Hospital for the insane and "odd-jobs man" of the town, broke down after an all-night's grilling and admitted, according to state troopers, that he had killed the James boy because the latter refused to steal wine for him.

STRUCK WITH FIST

Carroll's confession that he hit James with his fist and then left him dying on the hillside to return later to hide his body in the shallow cave was signed in the presence of state troopers and then turned over to Prosecutor Forrest B. Poling.

"Dale and I were sitting on the hillside discussing whiskey," Poling quoted the "odd-jobs" man as saying. "When I asked Dale to go steal some wine from his grand-mother, he said there wasn't any. I said there was and when I insisted he called me a liar."

"I hit him with my fist and he fell back, striking his head against a rock. I went down to a creek, wet my handkerchief and with that tried to revive him but couldn't and left."

THEN HID BODY

After brooding over the crime for the remainder of that day and part of the night, according to Prosecutor Poling, Carroll got up from bed, went to the hillside and hid the body where a posse of searchers found it 10 days later.

With the confession of Carroll, Gordon Blake, 35, who had been held as a suspect in the strange case, was released. Authorities fixed the day of the killing as May 27. It was first revealed when the boy's body was found two days ago.

TRY CONSTABLES

COLUMBUS, June 6.—Trial of three Hamilton-twp, Franklin-co constables was started in the county's criminal court today. The defendants are C. B. Moore, Morris Hanna and Erton Temple, who work out of the court of Clark Miller, justice of the peace.

Sixteen witnesses have been subpoenaed, nine for the state and seven for the defense.

The constables are charged with "injury, defrauding and depressing under color of office."

HOSPITAL NEWS

Leonard Bickett, of Charleston, W. Va., who is in Berger hospital for treatment of injuries received in an auto accident early Tuesday morning, is reported fair.

RAIN PROVIDES NEW HOPE FOR COUNTY FARMS

Heavy Downpours Reported in Several Parts of Pickaway-co, Tuesday

LITTLE RAIN HERE

Northern Part of County Reaps Benefits

WASHINGTON, June 6.

The drought situation in the central west approaches the nature of a national disaster, President Roosevelt said today in his semi-weekly press conference, but there is no danger of a food shortage.

Until the full extent of the damage can be gauged, he will withhold his message to congress requesting $25,000,000 to relieve the situation.

Heavy showers Tuesday afternoon in nearly every part of Pickaway-co provided a ray of hope for the county's drought-stricken farmers.

Circleville, it seems, was about the only part of the county that did not benefit by a heavy rainfall. It rained here for only a few minutes, hardly enough to even momentarily settle the dust.

It is possible the heaviest rainfall was in the northern part of the county in Scioto, Walnut, Harrison and Madison-twps. Motorists were forced to reduce the speed of their automobiles because of the heavy rain.

BENEFIT FIELD CORN

Garden crops and field corn, recently planted, were benefited most by the rainfall. Wheat, rye and pasture lands have been hardest hit by the lack of rain and the blistering sun, farmers believe, and wheat is too near maturity for rain to be of any appreciable value.

Canners, who started their peck pack this week, reported the crop will be very short.

ELKS AND EAGLES INSTALL OFFICERS

Two Circleville lodges, Elks and Eagles, installed new officers, Tuesday evening. Harry Bartholomew acted as grand lodge representative to install the Elks officers while James Kellner, Columbus, deputy grand auditor of Area 297, officiated at the Eagles ceremony.

New Elks officers include Leland E. Pontius, exalted ruler; Glen Geib, leading knight; Melvin A. Yates, loyal knight; Ray W. Davis, lecturing knight; Rudolph Gessley, secretary; Davis S. Dunlap, trustee for five years; Clair Will, treasurer, and C. G. Chaffin. Officers appointed by the new exalted ruler include Earl A. Smith, esquire; Charles E. Roof, Jr., chaplain; C. W. Clark, inner guard, and Fred Wittich, organist. Emmitt L. Crist retires as exalted ruler.

The new officers of the F. O. E. include: Hugh McManamy, worthy president; E. E. Miller, vice president; W. C. Donohoe, secretary; Charles Garner, chaplain; Charles Sampson, conductor; E. H. Rausenberger, Cecil Porter and I. E. Greeno, trustees.

W. R. Loughlin is the immediate past president. Social sessions followed installation.

A PROSPECT OR PROSPECTS

That is the way Mr. W. C. Morris of the Circle Realty Co. feels about classified advertisements. He was asked recently if he had sold a certain piece of property which had been advertised the previous night and he replied that he had not closed a deal but that he had received several prospects from that one ad. Mr. Morris carries classified advertising continuously because he knows that results are obtained therefrom.

The cost of class ads is low—surprisingly low—when you have something to sell or rent just call 782.

OFFICERS OF 1934 GRADUATING CLASS

The class they headed was the largest in Circleville history, 71 members being graduated.

Cook Pleases Throng

Oh Yeah age? which means I'm from Missouri and I'm not going to take anything; 2. Speed age? going fast but not knowing where we are going; 3. Machine age? not enough jobs.

Some of the statements of Dr. Cook follow:

"There is too much unnecessary history in education instead of present day history."

"James Watt, back in 1767 was responsible for the present day depression when he invented the steam engine which led to development of the machine age."

"This is not a depression of poverty but a depression of wealth, too much cotton, wheat and houses."

"There is too much leisure time. People don't work from sun-up to sun down as they used to do. Instead of obtaining wholesome recreation our spare time is wasted. This is also a cause for so many criminals."

"This is a doubtful age. Young people no longer accept authority of older people. They have to be shown."

"Education should take into consideration to teach pupils how to solve their own problems."

"The younger generation faces facts. The problems of this day are for education to solve. Not only young people but older ones need an education to cope with the changes."

"The modern age has progressed greatly along material lines. Man is a physical giant but his moral, social and spiritual side should be developed to control this great power."

"Too much emphasis is placed on conduct instead of character in education. Conduct is something you have to do, character is when you choose right over wrong because you want to."

"The states that rank high in crime rank lowest in education."

Dr. Cook was presented by E. L. Daley, superintendent of schools.

and "Lullaby" also from Erminie with Miss Dorothy Bartley as soloist.

The salutary by Margie Brown followed the latter number. She used as her subject "A New Deal in Education." Dale Ankrom, valedictorian, spoke on "Conservation."

At the conclusion of Dr. Cook's address and the orchestra's selection, E. L. Gephart, principal, presented scholarship awards to Mildred A. Francis and Dale Ankrom. Miss Francis was the highest ranking student in the class but was not eligible to be valedictorian or salutatorian because this is her first year in Circleville high school.

Kiwanis club awards to the graduates with the best rating in all activities were made to Russell Skaggs, who made 220.71 points, and Mary Katherine May, who made 219.76 points. Both pupils were very surprised when Mr. Gephart announced the decision. The keys were not presented since they have not yet been received. The actual award will be made at a Kiwanis club meeting in the near future.

Diplomas were presented by Charles H. May, president of the board of education, who thanked the audience for splendid support shown the schools.

Invocation was by Rev. T. C. Harper and benediction by Rev. L. C. Sherburne.

State Liquor Deficit

COLUMBUS.—Despite the fact that Ohio's liquor monopoly plan is showing a deficit in the first financial statement, officials in charge have told Governor George White that the plan will bring approximately $1,000,000 a year into the coffers of the state treasury. Additional revenue is expected to come from the state tax of $1 per gallon.

Four races of the yellow-bellied marmot are widely distributed in the rugged western half of Colorado, says Nature Magazine, but their selected habitat is far removed from nearly all agricultural activity, and they are of little concern to the farmer.

To know our happy school days
Have been so very brief.

Our teachers have been faithful,

Rescued Ducking

DENVER—The timely intervention of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Sweeney is credited with saving one of the ducklings in City Park from kidnapping. While they were feeding the ducks on one of the park lakes, a magpie swooped down, picked up one of the young ones in its claws, and tried to fly away. The Sweeneys chased it, recovered the frightened victim and returned him to the water.

HOW WOMEN CAN WIN MEN AND MEN WIN

The Favor of Other Men

Unless two pints of bile juice flow daily from your liver into your bowels, your food decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. Movements get hard and constipated. You get yellow tongue, yellow skin, pimples, dull eyes, bad breath, bad taste, gas, dizziness, headache. You have become an ugly-looking, foul-smelling, sour-thinking person. You have lost your personal charm. Everybody wants to run from you.

But don't take salts, mineral waters, oils, laxative pills, laxative candies or chewing gums and expect them to get rid of this poison that destroys your personal charm. They can't do it, for they only move out the tail end of your bowels and that doesn't take away enough of the decayed poison. Cosmetics won't help at all. Only a free flow of your bile juice will stop this decay poison in your bowels. The only mild vegetable medicine which starts a free flow of your bile juice is Carter's Little Liver Pills. No calomel (mercury) in Carter's. Only fine, mild vegetable extracts. If you would bring back your personal charm to win men, start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills according to directions today. 25¢ at drug stores.

Refuse "something just as good" for it may gripe, loosen teeth or acid stomach. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for. ©1933, C.M. Co.

Legal Plundering

The action of a house judiciary subcommittee in censuring three Chicago federal judges for "almost criminal negligence" is a reminder that the profession of practicing lawyers, recently under fire as harboring many members guilty of unethical and even criminal conduct, is not responsible for all of the questionable practices sometimes found in courts.

More than ordinary interest attaches to the action of the subcommittee because one of the judges censured was the judge who sent Al Capone to prison. He and two colleagues, the subcommittee found, had been guilty of conduct closely approaching criminal. The investigation related chiefly to bankruptcy cases. In some instances, the committee said, friends and former law partners were appointed receivers by judges and the huge fees charged virtually wiped out all assets.

Said the report: "Our investigation discloses a condition in Chicago, that amounts to almost criminal negligence in the failure on the part of the courts to properly conserve the property in litigation, and in some instances an apparent willing assent to the plundering and sacking of the estate committed to the care and custody of the court, because in many of these cases apparently the whole arrangement was simply to use up the assets in the payment of receiver and attorney fees, with an absolutely utter disregard for the right of creditors."

"During the last five years more than $4,000,000 have been lost to creditors throughout the United States in bankruptcy and receivership matters."

The condition uncovered in Chicago is similar to others that have come to public notice in different parts of the country in recent years. It is obvious that present laws are inadequate to protect properly bankruptcy estates. Further delay by congress in strengthening the laws would be inexcusable.

It has been demonstrated, says a scientist, that vitamin B increases the learning capacity of rats. But do we want wiser rats?

Cutting Public Costs

THE cry is frequently heard, in connection with the public demand for lower government costs, that there can be no further reductions; that expenditures have been cut to the bone and no additional economies are possible.

This usually is the recourse of politicians more intent upon preserving patronage and the other things that give them influence than in protecting the public's interests. It is heard whenever and wherever the movement for economy begins to gain impressive headway. Often these politicians are successful in misleading the public into believing that further cuts would prove disastrous.

But seldom are such claims true. Safe economy usually is possible to a much greater extent than politicians admit.

These observations are prompted by a news item relating to the Ottawa provincial legislative campaign now under way. Instead of 160 members being elected, as had been the case formerly, only 84 will be chosen. The reduction in membership was made in the interests of economy, and, in all probability, in the face of strong opposition by politicians.

There is little doubt, though, that the interests of the taxpayers will be served as well by the 84 members as they would be by 166.

CHAPTER FORTY

It was two weeks before Stanley saw Val again. She came in about eight o'clock one night, slim and audacious looking in new spring clothes, gardenias from Perry nestled against her right shoulder. She found Stanley, tired and anxious-eyed, making a mustard plaster. The door to the study was closed but the sound of John Harmon's typewriter was clearly audible. "What the devil's the matter, Stan? Why the plaster—are you sick?"

Stanley shook her head. "No. It's for John Harmon—he has a rotten cold. He ought to be in bed but he's determined to finish the last chapter of the novel. He promised it to Maynard for tomorrow and you know how John Harmon is about a promise." She lifted her shoulders wearily, "besides, we do need the money rather badly."

"Then, Maynard has read it?"

"Yes, and he's tremendously pleased. He's been a peach from the very beginning. He says that it is a book that will be talked about and thought about and not just read for a moment's pleasure and then forgotten."

"John Harmon is going to raise Cain when I interrupt him with this but I don't care if he does—I've worried long enough about him!"

"Here, give it to me," Valerie jumped up and took the plaster out of Stanley's hands. "I'm not his wife and he won't dare swear at me and I don't know anything about authors but I know a lot about mustard plasters!"

She marched coolly across the room and into the study. Stanley stood in the door and watched her descend upon John Harmon; watched him squirm and rebel at Valerie's business-like application of the plaster.

"But I tell you I don't need the darn thing and I don't want to be interrupted! Stanley, you know how I hate interruptions when I'm trying to—"

"Trying to have pneumonia, if you ask me," finished Valerie crossly, "and if you had any sense at all, you'd see that Stanley is half sick herself, worrying about you. You ought to be in bed this minute."

"Now get out of here, both of you—and leave me alone, will you?"

"Didn't I tell you he was impossible?" Stanley closed the door, flung herself wearily into the wing chair. "And he's usually so darn considerate. I know he must be awfully sick to act like this."

"You don't know much about men when they're sick, do you?" observed Valerie laconically. "Well, as soon as you can ease him away from that typewriter, you'd better get him into bed and call a doctor—or he'll wake up and find himself famous but dead. I've got to be getting along—I just stopped in to tell you that I got that break I was telling you about at the shop—and the raise. Thirty-five a week from now on. Not so bad—what?"

"Darling! Why didn't you tell me right away—without waiting."

"Oh, I'm used to waiting, I guess," Val drawled lightly, pulling on soft suede gloves, dropping her small chin for a moment against Perry's gardenias.

"You'll be leaving Mrs. Foley's, I suppose?"

"Will I? Well, rather. I've got a chance to go in with another girl at the shop. She's a model—does a lot of posing on the side. She has a swanky little apartment uptown. I may do it. I'm through with cold radiators and tin bathtubs and drug-store salads—forever, I hope."

She grinned slightly and stooped to give Stanley a kiss and a quick hug. "Don't worry about that clever husband of yours—he'll be all right in a few days. Good-bye."

"Good-bye, and don't neglect us so, Val. We miss you when you're not here."

How else can one explain the beginning in early June of the long parade of vacation tourists? Although the vacation season does not officially open until the Independence Day holidays, the long-distance motoring season is well under way by the middle of June.

Last year the American people spent $2,725,000,000 for vacation motor travel, and that was a depression year. Judging from the density of the parade formation so far this year the stream of motor tourists will not reach a low water mark during 1934.

During the last year or two a change in the customs and practices of the automobile tourist has been noted. Whereas during the first years of popularization of the automobile and mass construction of highways it was customary for the rank and file to take one annual trip and to crowd as many miles as possible into the vacation days or weeks, the popular thing today is to divide the summer's motoring into several shorter week-end journeys, with special emphasis on the holiday week-ends.

The motorists' vacation season is here and not even a major economic and financial catastrophe can keep them at home as long as there are new trips to be taken and new scenery to be enjoyed.

don't show up."

At the door Valerie turned and paused an instant, her hand on the knob. "Jimmy Hunter is going to be married," she announced casually. "To a girl he met last fall. She's a nice little thing—they're going to live over in Brooklyn."

"He was a nice boy."

"He kissed me once, Stanley, he was awfully sweet about it—well, good-bye, dear."

Stanley sat for a while thinking about Valerie and Jimmy Hunter, then she got up and made some hot lemonade. Approached the study door cautiously.

"Don't yell at me, John Harmon, and please drink this."

Her husband looked up and grinned a bit sheepishly. "I'm sorry, Stan, I was rude as the devil—but I was just finishing up. It's done now."

"I'm so glad, darling. You'll go to bed now, won't you?"

"That's a sweet lot of enthusiasm you're showing, I'm sure!" He protested, half laughing, half piqued. "I know," she smiled slowly, her eyes serious, "but you're so much more important to me than any book could ever be—and you're sick!"

"You darling! When you talk like that I don't even know that my head is splitting. Just let me get these pages into shape and I'll turn in. You can send it down to Maynard in the morning—I suppose I won't be allowed to leave the house?"

"Well, I should say not! Drink this quickly before it is quite cold."

She perched on the corner of his desk while he obediently drank the hot steaming liquid. She was tired and the only color in her face was the warm crimson of her lips, but somehow she still managed to be beautiful.

John Harmon told her so, cocking his rumpled brown head on one side, smiling at her with his intently eager, weary brown eyes.

"There's something about you, Stanley, I think it's that adorable line from the tip of your ear to the tip of your chin, or perhaps it's the charm of those faint violet shadows under your eyes, or maybe it's your eyes themselves, your lovely, clear gray eyes—"

"Shut up, idiot, and drink that stuff while it's hot enough to do you some good."

"By the way," she added more seriously, "Valerie got that raise she's been working for—she's pretty much pleased."

"Good for her! Say, if I'd known that I wouldn't have objected to the mustard plaster." He looked a bit guilty to where he had thrown it in the wastebasket. "She's a splendid sort of a kid, Stan, got all kinds of courage."

"I think she's still in love with Jimmy Hunter—you remember, that nice looking boy, who used to live at Mrs. Foley's?"

"Yes, she would be—there's a story there, isn't there? But I'm too darn muddled up to think it out. I think you're right, Stan, I think I'll go to bed."

By morning John Harmon was beautifully delicious and Stanley called a doctor. Before night there was no doubt but what it was pneumonia and a nurse had been installed.

He had a long hard case and when it was over and he was sitting up in a chair, with all the blankets he possessed wrapped around him, it was hard to tell which was the whiter and thinner—John Harmon or Stanley.

"Come here," he said, on his third day up. They were alone again, the nurse had left a week before.

"I hope you haven't been worrying about money, Stanley. There'll be quite a bit when I've seen Maynard."

Authority Tells How to Get Rid of This Scalp Affliction

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

IT IS always unpleasant to see scales of dandruff on the collar or suit of a sufferer from this common scalp condition. Many comment on others who have dandruff without realizing that they, too, are victims of this affliction.

Though the actual cause of dandruff has never been discovered, many explanations have been offered. Some have said that it is caused by a fungus, while others are fantastic and ridiculous. For example, in many persons believe dandruff is caused by the wearing of hats. This has given rise to the fad of doing without headgear, regardless of the time of year or season.

I, for one, am content to wear a hat, especially when weather conditions are cold or unpleasant. It is true that fresh air and sunshine are beneficial in maintaining a healthy scalp, but I do not believe wearing a hat is the cause of dandruff.

Some scientists believe that dandruff is due to a germ. Though the germ has not been isolated it is probable that within a short time some revelation concerning this annoying affliction will be made. Until more definite knowledge is available, every effort should be made to improve the general health by diet, fresh air, sunshine, cleanliness and sufficient rest and relaxation.

Frequent Shampoos

If you have dandruff keep the scalp clean and free from these unsightly scales. This is best done by persistent and frequent shampoos and the use of a mild, cleansing soap. Massage the scalp with the tips of the fingers or with a small bristle brush. This will improve the circulation of the scalp and make it more resistant to inflammations and infections.

I am often told by readers that they have followed all instructions carefully yet are unable to rid themselves of dandruff. It is probable that in many instances the disorder is complicated by some inflammation of the scalp and special medication is necessary for permanent cure. My advice is to consult a physician who will prescribe the necessary ointment.

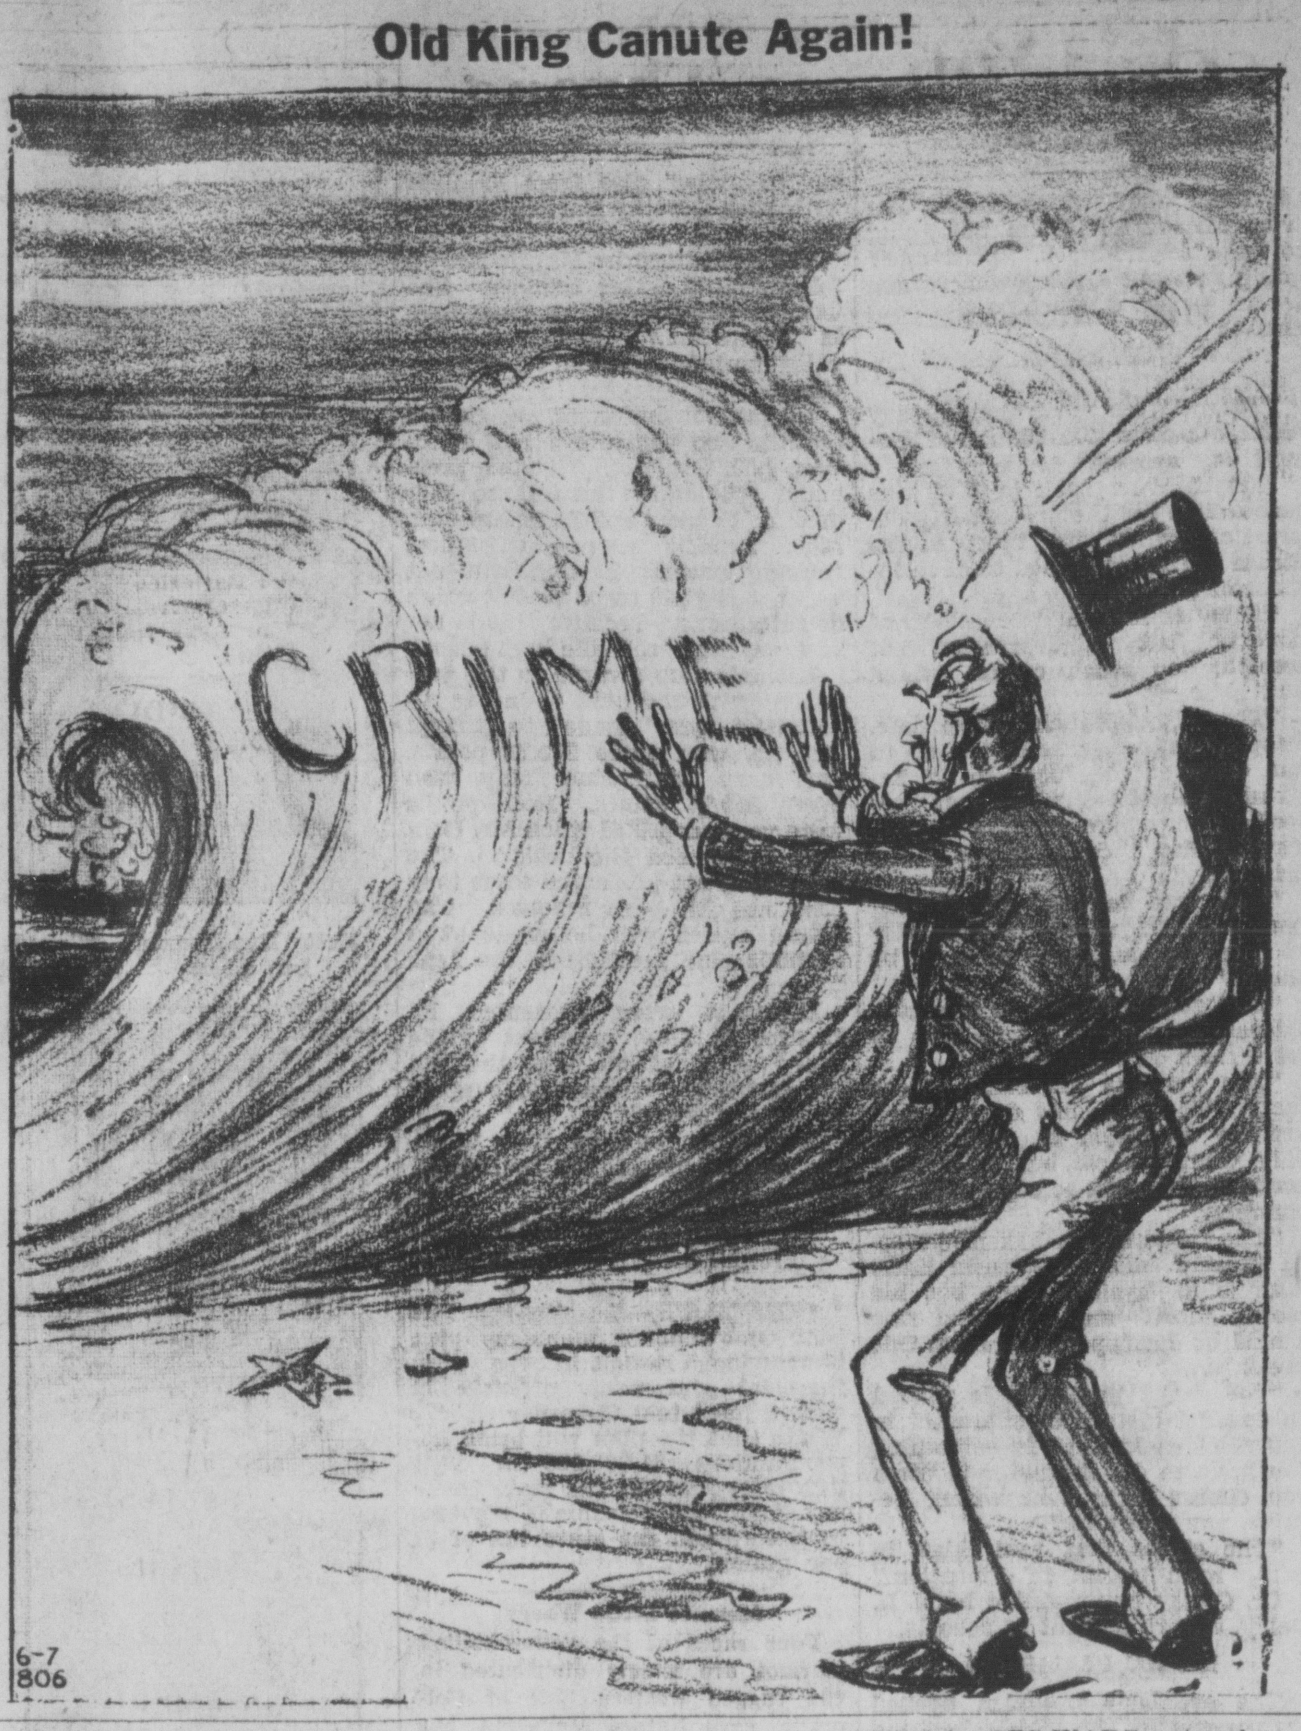

Make sure you are not suffering from some scalp ailment other than dandruff. For example, dandruff is often associated with such scalp disorders as eczema, psoriasis or ringworm. Of course, a permanent cure for dandruff can be hoped for only when the associated disturbance is entirely eradicated.

Another menace to the health of the scalp is the common practice of using a borrowed comb or brush. Never use a comb or brush that does not belong to you unless it has been washed and thoroughly dried. Bear in mind that dandruff may possibly be passed from one individual to another.

AT THE CLIFTONA

The most human portrayal of Indian life and love ever attempted for the screen is to be seen in "Laughing Boy." The new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer drama, starring Ramon Novarro with Lupe Velazquez in the feminine lead, opened yesterday at the Cliftona Theatre.

Adapted from the famous Pulitzer Prize winning novel written by Oliver La Farge, the picture contains a primitive love theme that is heart-stirring in intensity with an epic background of Navajo reservation life that is packed with audience interest. The Indian is treated as a personality for the first time in the drama that builds rapidly in emotional climaxes.

Among the picture's spectacular episodes are an Indian horse race in which the riders risk life and limb for a small cash prize, a caravan of the wagons of more than 800 Navajo tribesmen, and a "squad dance" in which 200 Indian women reveal a ceremony seldom witnessed by white people.

the wait is long. For those who know, the path is greased and easy. Such was the experience of a young man from Nebraska. He had just been appointed an auditor at $2,000 a year. He knew, in fact, he knew so much that he had come back to protest against the great injustice of working on the night shift.

He was returning to Nebraska shortly anyway, he said, to help in the primary. Said he: "I make about $1,500 during each campaign. Mostly social entertaining. I take the high political bosses out when they come to town, and give them a taste of night life—wine, women and song—the best Omaha can give 'em."

"How do things look for the Democrats?"

"Fine. Those poor devils of farmers don't know what money looks like. They have plenty of potatoes in their cellars, plenty of corn and wheat in their bins. So when they get these acreage allowance checks from the Government, they're fixed. It don't make no difference where it came from or who has to pay it back, they want these checks, and any Republican who opposes these checks would get mobbed."

"Besides, George Norris is the best Democrat we have in Nebraska."

But for one actually at work compiling and sending these checks the efficiency was nowhere apparent.

The new AAA appointee was put to work beside a young chap in the subversive section of the Machines Unit who was supposed to give necessary instruction.

He announced glumly that he was from Maryland, had once worked in the Census Bureau, and like most workers from Maryland, Virginia or the District of Columbia, expected to be dismissed any day. Western and Southern Senators have launched a campaign to oust the workers living adjacent to Washington, who under Republican Administrations packed the government.

Our job was to check the contracts for the curtailment of cotton, wheat, etc., and make sure that the punch card machines which ticked out the figures made no mistakes. On the basis of this, the farmer received his check.

Where Is Efficiency?

Secretary Wallace has been hailed as one of the two cabinet members (with Secretary Ickes) who have put their departments on night work. Large gobs of publicity have flowed from the Department's press bureaus on the efficiency with which the crop checks were sent to the farmer.

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT No. 11827

Notice is hereby given that Elizabeth McCrea Orr and George Florence McCrea have been duly appointed and qualified as Executors of the estate of Mary B. McCrea late of Pickaway County, Ohio, deceased.

Said this 4th day of June A. D. 1934 at

C. C. YOUNG, Judge of the Probate Court, Pickaway County, Ohio, (June 6, 1934).

"Evil Eye" Victim and Mother

A hearty meal is enjoyed in Orange County Hospital, Calif., by 7-year-old Mary Ebarguary, of Santa Ana, following her emancipation after several months penned up in a chicken coop during which she lived on scraps of food given her by a neighbor's boy. The child's mother, Mrs. Josie Ebarguary (shown with another of her children) said she imprisoned Mary because she had the "evil eye."

But for one actually at work compiling and sending these checks the efficiency was nowhere apparent.

The new AAA appointee was put to work beside a young chap in the subversive section of the Machines Unit who was supposed to give necessary instruction.

He announced glumly that he was from Maryland, had once worked in the Census Bureau, and like most workers from Maryland, Virginia or the District of Columbia, expected to be dismissed any day. Western and Southern Senators have launched a campaign to oust the workers living adjacent to Washington, who under Republican Administrations packed the government.

Our job was to check the contracts for the curtailment of cotton, wheat, etc., and make sure that the punch card machines which ticked out the figures made no mistakes. On the basis of this, the farmer received his check.

Asleep

The work was relative simple. It took thirty minutes to run through the first batch of about 100 farmers' acceptance slips. After that we went to sleep.

We slept for ninety minutes before another batch of slips disturbed us. After checking them again requiring only 30 minutes—we had more time on our hands. This time we went to the men's room for a smoke and chat. Meanwhile dotted around the room a host of others—asleep. There were not merely one or two, or three or four, but literally half the room asleep, reading or chatting.

Apparently there was nothing else to do. Operators worked when the work was in hot place of the time it didn't come. And this turned out to be an average night.

About 3,000 people were employed in the various stages of approving crop contracts and sending out crop checks. Probably that work could have been done by half that many.

WATER SHORTAGE

CHEYENNE, Wyo.—State Engineer Edwin W. Burritt has asked Wyoming's commissioner: throughout Wyoming for complete data concerning the available supply of water. He indicated that if their reports justified his belief that the most serious water shortage in the state history threatened, he would ask the federal government for funds with which to carry out a conservation program similar to that recently authorized in Utah.

Gold Strike Activity

DURANGO, Colo.—Results of the rich gold "strike" made by Charles Starr at the Red Arrow mine, nine miles east of Mancos recently manifested themselves in renewed activity throughout the once-famous La Plata quadrangle of southwestern Colorado, inactive for many years. Although the valuable deposit was found last fall, many operators awaited the coming of spring to commence operations.

RAIN PROVIDES

other states in the great farm belt of the mid-west but, according to agriculturists, they were not heavy enough to break the drought. They did, however, allay fears of complete crop ruin.

Ohio farmers correspondingly will benefit by crop shortages in other states in the farming region. Wheat soared to $1.00 a bushel on the Chicago board of trade and Ohio was one of the few states that will have a near normal crop.

MONEY PREPARED

Meanwhile, the president at Washington, prepared to pump $500,000,000 of federal funds into the farm lands for relief. President Roosevelt also was reported preparing a special message to congress on the drought and what measures he planned as aid for farmers faced with poverty because of crop failures.

While rains brought relief to farmers in the state, city dwellers, suffering from a protracted heat wave, watched the mercury tumble between 17 and 20 degrees. Cooling winds brought relief from the heat in sections where rain did not fall.

Nearly two inches of rain fell in the vicinity of Mt. Vernon. Cincinnati reported 1.7 inches of precipitation which flooded cellars. Washington C. H., in the heart of a fertile farm region, had 1.8 inches; Lancaster 1.5 and Wilmington nearly an inch.

Freak showers in the vicinity of Dayton left some fields dry and dusty while rain-soaking others. At Marion, lightning, during a thunder shower, struck and killed six-year-old Paul Arthur. Three brothers and his grandmother, Mrs. Edward Moore were knocked down by the blast but unhurt.

Farm experts in all sections concurred with M. L. Howell, Seneca-co farm agent at Tiffin, that the rainfall, which broke six weeks of drought, will put thousands of dollars in the pockets of Ohio farmers.

COLUMBUS, June 6.—The state relief commission today reported "serious" crop conditions, as a result of the drought, in 28 Ohio counties.

In 39 other counties, the situation is becoming serious, the commission statement said. The reports were based on the commission's state-wide survey of drought conditions, conducted as a step toward seeking federal aid for Ohio drought sufferers.

The survey to date has reached into about three-fourths of the counties in the state and is expected to be completed within several days, commission officials said.

OATS LOST IN 54

A large percentage of the oats crop will not be harvested in 54 counties, the survey disclosed. A decrease in milk production was reported in 56 counties, a shortage in forage for winter in 55 counties.

The survey also showed the water shortage in various sections of the state of the drought conditions. Twenty-six counties reported a shortage, 17 reported cases of water not fit for use, and 20 reported that drilling of wells was necessary.

The data, according to Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson, commission chairman, will be used as the basis for determining the amount of drought relief funds which will be sought for Ohio.

EX-SERVICE MEN HELPING SAWYER

COLUMBUS, June 5.—Aggressive support of Ohio World War veterans and ex-service men to help the candidacy of Lieutenant Governor Charles Sawyer, Democratic candidate for governor and the only Democratic aspirant who saw active service in France, is being organized in each of the 88 counties of the state.

Ex-Service Men's Sawyer for Governor Clubs are being formed in every county under the leadership of volunteers who were in the service and who believe that Sawyer's personal and public record make him the logical selection for the governorship, both in the August primary and in the November election.

Word has been received that the ex-service men's Sawyer clubs are popping up rapidly in every section of the state and that within a very short time there will be an active unit in each county. World War veterans in northern Ohio are especially active and are pushing their work with vigor.

The service men have pointed to Sawyer's war record where he served with distinction in the front ranks and following the overseas patriotic action returned to his home where his personal and public record have since made him one of Ohio's most admired and respected citizens.

One of the specially active Ex-Service Men's Sawyer for Governor Clubs has been organized in Clermont-co with John Clark, Batavia, as chairman and Fred Runher, Milford, as secretary. There will be units of the club in each town and township of the county.

Another alert club has been formed in Madisonville, Cincinnati suburb which was Mr. Sawyer's birthplace. Earl H. Leass is chairman and Oscar M. Buxton, secretary of this club.

Merry-Go-Rounder Gets a Job in the AAA and Shows How it Works

The nerve center of the agricultural United States during the past 12 months has been a cream brick building near the Washington Monument which houses that mushroom organization, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. From it have been mailed millions of checks to farmers all over the country. Within its walls are checked the contracts by which the major crops of the country are curtailed. How efficient has this nerve center been? To what extent over-run by Democratic carpet-baggers? This question, a Merry-Go-Rounder reporter went through the routine of obtaining a job in the AAA. Here is the result of his findings.

WASHINGTON — Cut a cross-section through the mass of humanity which goes to make these United States and in it you will find a duplicate of the line which forms every day before the personnel office of the AAA—seeking jobs.

Despite the fact that the New Deal is now more than one year old, this line still is long and dreary. In it are cocksure college boys just off the campus convinced the government owes them a living, thinly pathetic and aging spinsters who have heard the word "No" so often they have lost every atom of self-confidence, peanut politicians from every part of the country who boast of their personal friendship with Jim Farley—all of them sitting, waiting, pleading, bulldozing, being rejected, coming back, sitting, waiting.

Potentate of it all is a bland, bald little man, Julien N. Friant. Rather a nice little man, but as cold as Jim Farley's handshake after the first thousand.

Friant is Jim Farley's man Friday for the Department of Agriculture, the star of patronage for the biggest job pool outside the NRA. This business of patronage is a science and Julien Friant is a scientist.

He keeps a chart on which are marked columns representing every state in the Union. These columns in turn represent jobs, and each time a Senator sends a job-hunter to the AAA, his column is lengthened by one space. Each time also a Senator protests that his candidate cannot get a job. Friant takes from his desk and shows the Senatorial protestant his quota—his column—is full.

Job Mecca
Finally, after weary trips to the Capitol and proper endorsements from the proper Senator, the girl in the outer office beckoned.
"I can't give this to you here," she said in a stage whisper. "Come into Mr. Jones' where all the job-seekers can't see you." Then she produced a letter to H. J. Alexander, one of Friant's assistants, which meant that the job was won.

The next step was to sign eight separate applications chiefly for the Civil Service Commission and for the purpose of "blanketing" the employee into Civil Service after he has been on the government payroll for three months. This is a scheme evolved by Democratic patronage grabbers for getting around the Civil Service rules of half a century. Appointees to the AAA are exempted by law from Civil Service; but later they receive automatic Civil Service status in order to make their jobs more permanent.

Work began that night at 11:50 p. m. — the night shift.

WELL KNOWN MEN IN SCHOOL FIGHT

Dr. Lantz, H. B. Eymann, Arthur Vierehne Members of Lancaster School Board

Several men well known locally are in the center of a school controversy at Lancaster, which developed into a near riot Monday evening.

Dr. James M. Lantz, president of the harassed school board, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for congress from the 11th Ohio district; H. B. Eymann is well known here, and A. E. Vierehne is a native of Pickaway-co. P. S. Benson is the other member of the board.

The disturbance arose over refusal of the board to rehire Dean M. Hickson, high school principal, and C. H. Griffey, superintendent of the city schools.

The board of education declined to give an explanation why the two school men were not rehired saying "such a statement would work a hardship on them in securing another position."

A statement of the school board said that the demonstration of the 700 persons is another evidence that a change in the school leadership is imperative.

Man Confesses Killing Youth, 15, Burying Body

PHILIPPI, W. Va., June 6.—Within 10 hours after Lawrence Carroll, 32, confessed that he killed Dale James, 15, and then hid the boy's body in a small cave high in the hill country of West Virginia, county authorities today announced plans for summoning of a grand jury to indict the man for murder.

Carroll, former inmate of the Weston State Hospital for the insane and "odd-jobs" man of the town, broke down after an all-night's grilling and admitted, according to state troopers, that he had killed the James boy because the latter refused to steal wine for him.

STRUCK WITH FIST
Carroll's confession that he hit James with his fist and then left him dying on the hillside to return later to hide his body in the shallow cave was signed in the presence of state troopers and then turned over to Prosecutor Forrest B. Poling.

"Dale and I were sitting on the hillside discussing whiskey," Poling quoted the "odd-jobs" man as saying. "When I asked Dale to go steal some wine from his grand-mother, he said there wasn't any. I said there was and when I insisted he called me a liar."

"I hit him with my fist and he fell back, striking his head against a rock. I went down to a creek, wet my handkerchief and with that tried to revive him but couldn't and left."

RAIN PROVES NEW HOPE FOR COUNTY FARMERS

Heavy Downpours Reported in Several Parts of Pickaway-co, Tuesday

LITTLE RAIN HERE
Northern Part of County Reaps Benefits

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The drought situation in the central west approaches the nature of a national disaster, President Roosevelt said today in his semi-weekly press conference, but there is no danger of a food shortage.

Until the full extent of the damage can be gauged, he will withhold his message to congress requesting $225,000,000 to relieve the situation.

Heavy showers Tuesday afternoon in nearly every part of Pickaway-co provided a ray of hope for the county's drought-stricken farmers.

Circleville, it seems, was about the only part of the county that did not benefit by a heavy rainfall. It rained here for only a few minutes, hardly enough to momentarily settle the dust.

It is possible the heaviest rainfall was in the northern part of the county in Scioto, Walnut, Harrison and Madison townships. Farmers were forced to reduce the speed of their automobile because of the heavy rain.

BENEFIT FIELDS
Garden crops and field crops recently planted, were benefited most by the rainfall. Wheat, corn and pasture lands have been hit by the lack of rain and the blistering sun, farmers believe that wheat is too near maturity to rain to be of any benefit.

Canners, who start packing this week, will be very short.

ILS DEFEAT CHOWS

Circleville Oils weathered a rally by the Purina Chows, evening, to win by a 10-7. The Chows, kicked around by several teams, played pretty well, although a number of runs can be attributed to outfielding.

Chows were spotted three in the first frame when they played a big part. Two were then sent home by a liner in the direction of Joe Barnes. The Oils took one look toward the outfield and saw the sun and never did see the ball again. It was for a home run.

The Oils not to be outdone scored five runs in their part of the inning on hits and errors.

SCORE IN EIGHTH
The Oils added one in the second when they stopped until the sixth when three crossed the plate. The Purina did nothing dangerous from the first inning until the eighth when they combined seven straight hits for four runs. A double play, two runners being put out at the plate, ended the rally.

Sands and Fowler pitched for the Chows with Purcell on the hill for the Oil team.

KEARNS' IDEAS USED ON BAER?

Believe Dempsey 'Goading' Heavyweight Into Superior Fighting Form.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 6.—Is Jack Dempsey trying to goad Max Baer into making a super-human fight against Primo Carnera? Jack's attitude toward Max is on a parity with the way Jack Kearns used to treat Dempsey himself. With Kearns, nothing that Dempsey ever did in training was quite right, with the result that Dempsey was always hitting for a high mark in his career.

It was a deliberate plot on Kearns' part. As long as he pretended that he wasn't satisfied with Dempsey's training or his fighting, Jack was all the more anxious to serve his master. It made him work or fight ten times harder that he would have under ordinary circumstances.

FIGHT OVER HEAD
It is my private suspicion that smartened-up Mister Dempsey is now trying the same sort of goad on Max Baer. Jack wants to goad the fellow into fighting about his speed. It is probably the only way in the world to get the best out of Baer. If Max is left to his own devices, he won't make half the fight that Dempsey can bully out of him.

It is the one way to make him fight at his best, make him sore at himself before the first bell rings, and you'll see one of the greatest fighting machines since Ketchel or Dempsey himself.

It is a fellow like Dempsey who would get Baer's goat. Max is a sort of Dempsey twin in the fight business. In many ways Baer has taken Dempsey's place, and this would be more pronounced should Baer win the title.

CAMP ST. JOSEPH TO OPEN JUNE 23

Speaks in Washington C. H.; Also Takes Crack at D. C. Pemberton, Lobbyist.

WASHINGTON C. H., June 6.—The political breach between C. Nelson Sparks, Akron, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, and Ed. Schorr, Cincinnati, Republican state chairman grew wider today with a fresh attack by Sparks on Schorr before the Young Men's Republican Club of Payette-co.

"Last year, fellow Republicans, you can recall that an investigation of the school book trust was started," Sparks said.

"Who killed that investigation? The professional lobbyist, with the co-operation and assistance of our Republican state central committee chairman."

"I am ashamed to have to say this. Our state chairman was retained by the American Book Company to file an injunction against the investigating Senate committee, because he had advised the book company that the committee appointed at a special session was illegal."

"Your state chairman, elected to promote good government, elected to uphold and fight for the fundamentals of our party, is a political bed fellow of those elements that have been the cause of the loss of confidence in our party. Without strong leadership there can be no party regularity."

Sparks also took a shot at D. C. Pemberton, lobbyist and alleged "boss" of the Republican party's activities in the Seventh congressional district, saying that he "also directs and manipulates the Republican chairman's office which has degenerated into a political brokerage office dealing in both Democratic and Republican securities."

This was conferred upon Miss Marcella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roese of South Bloomfield at the picnic held in the Jesse L. Baum grove, near Duval, Thursday, May 31.

Some time ago the Young People's societies of the South Bloomfield parish composed of the M. E. churches of Walnut Hill, Lockbourne, Shadsville and South Bloomfield, staged a popularity contest to determine the most popular young lady among their membership. Votes were sold at one cent each the proceeds to be used to send young folks to the Epworth League institute at Lancaster camp grounds this summer. A fair sized amount was realized.

FOUR IN CONTEST

The contestants were: Miss Marcella Roese of South Bloomfield; Miss Ruth Flora, of Walnut Hill; Miss Norma Miller of Shadsville and Miss Martha Eakin of Lockbourne.

Friends of each contestant exerted every effort to advance their favorite. When the votes were counted it was found that Miss Roese was the victor, Miss Flora second, Miss Miller third and Miss Eakin fourth. The winner was fittingly crowned. May Queen as a part of the picnic exercises.

The queen's attendants were Miss Flora, Miss Eakin, Frances Petty substituting for Miss Norma Miller and Miss Elizabeth Miller. Philip Roby of South Bloomfield, officiated as crown bearer; Jimmie Johnson and Paul

SPARKS HITS SCHORR RULE

Speaks in Washington C. H.; Also Takes Crack at D. C. Pemberton, Lobbyist.

WASHINGTON C. H., June 6.—The political breach between C. Nelson Sparks, Akron, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, and Ed. Schorr, Cincinnati, Republican state chairman grew wider today with a fresh attack by Sparks on Schorr before the Young Men's Republican Club of Payette-co.

"Last year, fellow Republicans, you can recall that an investigation of the school book trust was started," Sparks said.

"Who killed that investigation? The professional lobbyist, with the co-operation and assistance of our Republican state central committee chairman."

"I am ashamed to have to say this. Our state chairman was retained by the American Book Company to file an injunction against the investigating Senate committee, because he had advised the book company that the committee appointed at a special session was illegal."

"Your state chairman, elected to promote good government, elected to uphold and fight for the fundamentals of our party, is a political bed fellow of those elements that have been the cause of the loss of confidence in our party. Without strong leadership there can be no party regularity."

Sparks also took a shot at D. C. Pemberton, lobbyist and alleged "boss" of the Republican party's activities in the Seventh congressional district, saying that he "also directs and manipulates the Republican chairman's office which has degenerated into a political brokerage office dealing in both Democratic and Republican securities."

"The year age? which means I'm from Missouri and I'm not going to take anything; 2. Speed age? going fast but not knowing where we are going; 3. Machine age? not enough jobs."

Some of the statements of Dr. Cook follow:

"There is too much unnecessary history in education instead of present day history."

"James Watt's steam engine in 1767 was responsible for the day depression when he invented the steam engine which led to development of the machine age."

"This is not a depression of poverty but a depression of wealth, too much cotton, wheat and houses."

"There is too much leisure time. People don't work from sun-up to sun down as they used to do. Instead of obtaining wholesome recreation our spare time is wasted. This is also a cause for so many criminals."

"This is a doubtful age. Young people no longer accept authority of older people. They have to be shown."

"Education should take into consideration to teach pupils how to solve their own problems."

"The younger generation faces facts. The problems of this day are for education to solve. Not only young people but older ones need an education to cope with the changes."

"The modern age has progressed greatly along material lines. Man is a physical giant but his moral, social and spiritual side should be developed to control this great power."

"Too much emphasis is placed on conduct instead of character in education. Conduct is something you have to do, character is when you choose right over wrong because you want to."

"The states that rank high in crime rank lowest in education."

Dr. Cook was presented by E. L. Daley, superintendent of schools.

MUSIC PLEASING

The evening's program opened with music by the high school orchestra with John H. Gill directing. The glee club, directed by Miss Johnna Tootle, sang twice, "Join in Pleasure" from Erminie and "Lullaby" also from Erminie with Miss Dorothy Bartley as soloist.

The salutatory by Margie Brown followed the latter number. She used as her subject "A New Deal in Education." Dale Ankrom, valedictorian, spoke on "Conservation."

At the conclusion of Dr. Cook's address and the orchestra's selection, E. I. Gephart, principal, presented scholarship awards to Mildred A. Francis and Dale Ankrom. Miss Francis was the highest ranking student in the class but was not eligible to be valedictorian or salutatorian because this is her first year in Circleville high school.

Kiwanis club awards to the graduates with the best rating in all activities were made to Russell Skaggs, who made 220.71 points, and Mary Katherine May, who made 219.76 points. Both pupils were very surprised when Mr. Gephart announced the decision. The keys were not presented since they have not yet been received. The actual award will be made at a Kiwanis club meeting in the near future.

Diplomas were presented by Charles H. May, president of the board of education, who thanked the audience for splendid support shown the schools.

Invocation was by Rev. T. C. Harper and benediction by Rev. L. C. Sherburne.

State Liquor Deficit

COLUMBUS.—Despite the fact that Ohio's liquor monopoly plan is showing a deficit in the first financial statement, officials in charge have told Governor George White that the plan will bring approximately $1,000,000 a year into the coffers of the state treasury. Additional revenue is expected to come from the state tax of $1 per gallon.

Marmot Little Worry

Four races of the yellow-bellied marmot are widely distributed in the rugged western half of Colorado, says Nature Magazine, but their selected habitat is far removed from nearly all agricultural activity, and they are of little concern to the farmer.

We hail with joy our last day
Altho we're filled with grief
To know our happy school days
Have been so very brief.
The class has had its troubles
Its also had its joys;
We learned to love each other
As high school girls and boys.
Our teachers have been faithful
And very kind and true;
With tender thought and heartiness
We now must say adieu.
But we will not forget you,
Or lessons you have taught;
We've had such happy school days

Rescued Duckling

DENVER—The timely intervention of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Sweeney is credited with saving one of the ducklings in City Park from kidnapping. While they were feeding the ducks on one of the park lakes, a magpie swooped down, picked up one of the young ones in its claws, and tried to fly away. The Sweeneys chased it, recovered the frightened victim and returned him to the water.

HOW WOMEN CAN WIN MEN AND MEN WIN

The Favor of Other Men

Unless you take care of your liver, your food decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. You get nervous, constipated. You get yellow tongue, yellow skin, pimples, dull eyes, bad breath, bad taste, dizziness, headache. You have become an ugly-looking, foul-smelling, sour-thinking person. You have lost your personal charm. Everybody wants to run from you. But don't take salts, mineral waters, oils, laxative pills, laxative candies or chewing gums and expect them to get rid of this poison that destroys your personal charm. They can't do it, for they only move out the tail end of your bowels and leave the poison in your system. Everybody wants to run from you. Only a free flow of bile juice will stop this decay poison in your bowels. The only mild vegetable medicine which starts a free flow of your bile juice is Carter's Little Liver Pills. No calomel (mercury) extract. If you would bring back your personal charm to win men start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills according to directions today. 25c at drug stores. ## CHAPTER FORTY

It was two weeks before Stanley saw Val again. She came in about eight o'clock one night, slim and audacious looking in new spring clothes, gardenias from Perry nestled against her right shoulder. She found Stanley, tired and anxious-eyed, making a mustard plaster. The door to the study was closed but the sound of John Harmon's typewriter was clearly audible. "What the devil's the matter, Stan? Why the plaster—are you sick?"

Stanley shook her head. "No. It's for John Harmon—he has a rotten cold. He ought to be in bed but he's determined to finish the last chapter of the novel. He promised it to Maynard for tomorrow and you know how John Harmon is about a promise." She lifted her shoulders wearily, "besides, we do need the money rather badly."

"Then, Maynard has read it?"

"Yes, and he's tremendously pleased. He's been a peach from the very beginning. He says that it is a book that will be talked about and thought about and not just read for a moment's pleasure and then forgotten."

"John Harmon is going to raise Cain when I interrupt him with this but I don't care if he does—I've worried long enough about him!"

"Here, give it to me," Valerie jumped up and took the plaster out of Stanley's hands. "I'm not his wife and he won't dare swear at me and I don't know anything about authors but I know a lot about mustard plasters!"

She marched coolly across the room and into the study. Stanley stood in the door and watched her descend upon John Harmon; watched him squirm and rebel at Valerie's business-like application of the plaster.

"But I tell you I don't need the darn thing and I don't want to be interrupted! Stanley, you know how I hate interruptions when I'm trying to—"

"Trying to have pneumonia, if you ask me," finished Valerie crossly, "and if you had any sense at all, you'd see that Stanley is half sick herself, worrying about you. You ought to be in bed this minute."

"Now get out of here, both of you—and leave me alone, will you?"

"Didn't I tell you he was impossible?" Stanley closed the door, flung herself wearily into the wing chair. "And he's usually so darn considerate. I know he must be awfully sick to act like this."

"You don't know much about men when they're sick, do you?" observed Valerie laconically. "Well, as soon as you can ease him away from that typewriter, you'd better get him into bed and call a doctor—or he'll wake up and find himself famous but dead. I've got to be getting along—I just stopped in to tell you that I got that break I was telling you about at the shop—and the raise. Thirty-five a week from now on. Not so bad—what?"

"Darling! Why didn't you tell me right away—without waiting?"

"Oh, I'm used to waiting. I guess," Val drawled lightly, pulling on soft suede gloves, dropping her small chin for a moment against Perry's gardenias.

"You'll be leaving Mrs. Foley's, I suppose?"

"Will I? Well, rather. I've got a chance to go in with another girl at the shop. She's a model—does a lot of posing on the side. She has a swanky little apartment upstairs. I may do it. I'm through with cold radiators and tin bathtubs and a drug-store salads—forever, I hope."

She grinned slightly and stooped to give Stanley a kiss and a quick hug. "Don't worry about that clever husband of yours—he'll be all right in a few days. Good-bye."

"Good-bye, and don't neglect us so, Val. We miss you when you're gone."

Stanley looked at the clock. It was ten. She closed the door and went to bed. She was alone. She was alone. She was alone.

don't show up."

At the door Valerie turned and paused an instant, her hand on the knob. "Jimmy Hunter is going to be married," she announced casually. "To a girl he met last fall. She's a nice little thing—they're going to live over in Brooklyn."

"He was a nice boy."

"He kissed me once, Stanley, he was awfully sweet about it—well, good-bye."

"Good-bye, dear."

Stanley sat for a while thinking about Valerie and Jimmy Hunter, then she got up and made some hot lemonade. Approached the study door cautiously.

"Don't yell at me, John Harmon, and please drink this."

Her husband looked up and grinned a bit sheepishly. "I'm sorry, Stan, I was rude as the devil—but I was just finishing up. It's done now."

"I'm so glad, darling. You'll go to bed now, won't you?"

"That's a sweet lot of enthusiasm you're showing, I'm sure!" He protested, half laughing, half piqued.

"I know," she smiled slowly, her eyes serious, "but you're so much more important to me than any book could ever be—and you're sick!"

"You darling! When you talk like that, I don't even know if my head is splitting. Just let me get these pages into shape and I'll turn in. You can send it down to Maynard in the morning—I suppose I won't be allowed to leave the house?"

"Well, I should say not! Drink this quickly before it is quite cold."

She perched on the corner of his desk while he obediently drank the hot steaming liquid. She was tired and the only color in her face was the warm crimson of her lips, but somehow she still managed to be beautiful.

John Harmon told her so, cocking his rumped brown head on one side, smiling at her with his intensely eager, weary brown eyes.

"There's something about you, Stanley, I think it's that adorable line from the tip of your ear to the tip of your chin, or perhaps it's the charm of those faint violet shadows under your eyes, or maybe it's your eyes themselves, your lovely, clear gray eyes."

"Shut up, idiot, and drink that stuff while it's hot enough to do you some good."

"By the way," she added more seriously, "Valerie got that raise she's been working for—she's pretty much pleased."

"Good for her! Say, if I'd known that I wouldn't have objected to the mustard plaster. He looked a bit guilty to where he had thrown it in the wastebasket. "She's a splendid sort of a kid, Stan, got all kinds of courage."

"I think she's still in love with Jimmy Hunter—you remember, that nice looking boy, who used to live at Mrs. Foley's?"

"Yes, she would be—there's a story there, isn't there? But I'm too darned muddled up to think it out. I think you're right, Stan, I guess, I'll go to bed."

By morning John Harmon was beautifully delicious and Stanley called a doctor. Before night there was no doubt but what it was pneumonia and a nurse had been installed.

He had a long hard case and when it was over and he was sitting up in a chair, with all the blankets he possessed wrapped around him, it was hard to tell which was the whiter and thinner—John Harmon or Stanley.

"Come here," he said, on his third day up. They were alone again, the nurse had left a week before.

"I hope you haven't been worrying about money, Stanley. There'll be quite a bit when I've seen Maynard."

"Yes, I know. Perry let me have

There was no doubt but what the long rides with Perry did Stanley a lot of good. In no time at all, she had gained back all her natural buoyancy and vitality. But John Harmon, although he was soon able to go with them, and ate raw eggs and drank quantities of certified milk, refused to gain, as he should have done.

He stayed thin and no amount of sunshine or cod liver oil seemed to make any impression on him. He was still pathetically weak, and try as he would to hide it, terribly discouraged.

And then in June, when they had made plans to get out of the city—Maynard called Stanley up, and asked her to come to his office.

She went a bit wonderingly. She knew he had been seeing John Harmon, more or less constantly, all the month, knew that the first installment of "Gloria" was being met with much favorable comment. His telephone message had come from his secretary and had simply stated that he would like to see her as soon as possible on a matter of business.

Dandruff Is a Menace to The Hair

Authority Tells How to Get Rid of This Scalp Affliction

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

IT IS always unpleasant to see scales of dandruff on the collar or suit of a sufferer from this common scalp condition. Many comment on others who have dandruff without realizing that they, too, are victims of this affliction.

Though the actual cause of dandruff has never been discovered, many explanations have been offered. Some have scientific backing, while others are fantastic and ridiculous. For example, many persons believe dandruff is caused by the wearing of hats. This has given rise to the fad of doing without headgear, regardless of the time of year or season.

I, for one, am content to wear a hat, especially when weather conditions are cold or unpleasant. It is true that fresh air and sunshine are beneficial in maintaining a healthy scalp, but I do not believe wearing a hat is the cause of dandruff.

Some scientists believe that dandruff is due to a germ. Though the germ has not been isolated it is probable that within a short time some revelation concerning this annoying affliction will be made. Until more definite knowledge is available, every effort should be made to improve the general health by diet, fresh air, sunshine, cleanliness and sufficient rest and relaxation.

Frequent Shampooing
If you have dandruff keep the scalp clean and free from these unsightly scales. This is best done by persistent and frequent shampooing and the use of a mild, cleansing soap. Massage the scalp with the tips of the fingers or with a small bristle brush. This will improve the circulation of the scalp and make it more resistant to inflammations and infections.

I am often told by readers that they have followed all instructions carefully yet are unable to rid themselves of dandruff. It is probable that in many instances the disorder is complicated by some inflammation of the scalp and special medication is necessary for permanent cure. My advice is to consult a physician who will prescribe the necessary ointment.

Make sure you are not suffering from some scalp ailment other than dandruff. For example, dandruff is often associated with such scalp disorders as eczema, psoriasis or ringworm. These, a permanent cure for dandruff can be hoped for only when the associated disturbance is entirely eradicated.

Another menace to the health of the scalp is the common practice of using a borrowed comb or brush. Never use a comb or brush that does not belong to you unless it has been washed and thoroughly dried. Bear in mind that dandruff may possibly be passed from one individual to another.

AT THE GRAND
It begins to appear that dancing is a first rate springboard into the movies.

Wynne Gibson, who made her own stage start as a dancer, made an off-hand checkup on the "Sleepers East" set at the Fox Film studio while chatting with Mona Barrie, and found a surprising number of former dancers among present day stars.

Lillian Harvey, Joan Crawford, Janet Gaynor, Marion Davies, Ruby Keeler, Elissa Landi, Marion Nixon, and dozens of others, started out as dancers.

Miss Gibson, playing an unusually dramatic role in "Sleepers East," which comes on Wednesday to the Grand Theatre, made her first stage bow in 1921 as a dancer and singer in "Tangerine."

Among the picture's spectacular episodes are an Indian horse race in which the riders risk life and limb for a small cash prize, a caravan of the wagons of more than 800 Navajo tribesmen, and a "squad dance" in which 200 Indian women reveal a ceremony seldom witnessed by white people.

AT THE CLIFTONA
The most human portrayal of Indian life and love ever attempted for the screen is to be seen in "Laughing Boy." The new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer drama, starring Ramon Novarro with Lupe Velez in the feminine lead, opened yesterday at the Cliftona Theatre.

Adapted from the famous Pulitzer Prize winning novel written by Oliver La Farge, the picture contains a primitive love theme that is heart-stirring in intensity with an epic background of Navajo reservation life that is packed with audience interest. The Indian is treated as a personality for the first time in the drama that builds rapidly in emotional climaxes.

other states in the great farm belt of the mid-west but, according to agriculturists, they were not heavy enough to break the drought. They did, however, allay fears of complete crop ruin.

Ohio farmers correspondingly will benefit by crop shortages in other states in the farming region. Wheat soared to $1.00 a bushel on the Chicago board of trade, and Ohio was one of the few states that will have a near normal crop.

MONEY PREPARED

Meanwhile, the president at Washington, prepared to pump $500,000,000 of federal funds into the farm lands for relief. President Roosevelt also was reported preparing a special message to Congress on the drought and what measures he planned as aid for farmers faced with poverty because of crop failures.

While rains brought relief to farmers in the state, city dwellers, suffering from a protracted heat wave, watched the mercury tumble between 17 and 20 degrees. Cooling winds brought relief from the heat in sections where rain did not fall.

Nearly two inches of rain fell in the vicinity of Mt. Vernon, Cincinnati reported 1.7 inches of precipitation which flooded cellars. Washington C. H., in the heart of a fertile farm region, had 1.8 inches; Lancaster 1.5 and Wilmington nearly an inch.

Freak showers in the vicinity of Dayton left some fields dry and dusty while rain-soaking others. At Marion, lightning, during a thunder shower, struck and killed six-year-old Paul Arthur. Three brothers and his grandmother, Mrs. Edward Moore were knocked down by the blast but unhurt.

Farm experts in all sections concurred with M. L. Howell, Seneca-co farm agent at Tiffin, that the rainfall, which broke six weeks of drought, will put thousands of dollars in the pockets of Ohio farmers.

COLUMBUS, June 6.—The state relief commission today reported "serious" crop conditions, as a result of the drought, in 28 Ohio counties.

In 39 other counties, the situation is becoming serious, the commission statement said. The reports were based on the commission's state-wide survey of drought conditions, conducted as a step toward seeking federal aid for Ohio drought sufferers.

The survey to date has reached into about three-fourths of the counties in the state and is expected to be completed within several days, commission officials said.

OATS LOST IN 54

A large percentage of the oats crop will not be harvested in 54 counties, the survey disclosed. A decrease in milk production was reported in 56 counties, a shortage in forage for winter in 55 counties.

The survey also showed the water shortage in various sections of the state of the drought conditions. Twenty-six counties reported a shortage, 17 reported cases of water not fit for use, and 20 reported that drilling of wells was necessary.

The data, according to Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson, commission chairman, will be used as the basis for determining the amount of drought relief funds which will be sought for Ohio.

EX-SERVICE MEN HELPING SAWYER

COLUMBUS, June 5.—Aggressive support of Ohio World War veterans and ex-service men to help the candidacy of Lieutenant Governor Charles Sawyer, Democratic candidate for governor and the only Democratic aspirant who saw active service in France, is being organized in each of the 88 counties of the state.

Ex-Service Men's Sawyer for Governor Clubs are being formed in every county under the leadership of volunteers who were in the service and who believe that Sawyer's personal and public record make him the logical selection for the governorship, both in the August primary and in the November election.

Word has been received that the ex-service men's Sawyer clubs are popping up rapidly in every section of the state and that there will be an active unit in each county. World War veterans in northern Ohio are especially active and are pushing their work with vigor.

The service men have pointed to Sawyer's war record where he served with distinction in the front ranks and following the overseas patriotic action returned to his home where his personal and public record have since made him one of Ohio's most admired and respected citizens.

One of the specially active Ex-Service Men's Sawyer for Governor Clubs has been organized in Clermont-co with John Clark, Batavia, as chairman and Fred Rumher, Milford, as secretary. There will be units of the club in each town and township of the county.

Another alert club has been formed in Madisonville, Cincinnati suburb which was Mr. Sawyer's birthplace. Earl H. Lease is chairman and Oscar M. Buxton, secretary of this club.

Down where they grow tobacco.. in most places Chesterfield is the largest-selling cigarette

—what does that mean?

—it takes good things to make good things.
—the mild ripe tobaccos we buy for Chesterfield mean milder better taste.
—the way they are made means Chesterfields burn right and smoke cool.
—it means that down where they grow tobacco folks know that mild ripe tobaccos are bought for Chesterfield.

And because Chesterfields are made of the right kinds of tobacco, it is a milder cigarette, a cigarette that tastes better.
There is no substitute for mild, ripe tobacco.
